NICARAGUA ASKS REDRESS AT GENEVA

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS ASKED TO IRON OUT TROUBLES

Telltale Tactics of Our Saucy Southern Neighbor Again Embroils America In the Mire of the European Political Chess Board—Claims Mexico Aided the Insurrectos and Started Revolution—Southern Nations Monkeying With a Buzz Saw.

The American continent again suddenly and sensationally entered the domain of League of Nations political activities at Geneva, Switzerland Friday when Nicaragua filed a protest against Mexico, alleging a freebooting expedition by an auxiliary Mexican warship to help Nicaraguan revolutionists to overthrow the government.

Nicaragua in its note of protest does not request specific league action but Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, has forwarded the protest to all the members of the organization, as well as Mexico, a nonmember.

The secretary general also has communicated to the Mexican government that in accordance with the regular procedure of the league, Mexico may forward to league members any communication which it may consider to be desirable in connection with the Nicaraguan note.

The league covenant provides that nonmembers shall be invited to accept obligation of membership in case of a dispute between members and nonmembers.

This is the first Latin-American dispute placed before the league and opens the question as to what attitude the league will adopt in a dispute arising on the American continent. The covenant prohibits any action affecting the validity of the Monroe doctrine.

The league is awaiting an answer to the Nicaraguan accusation that both sides may be told. There is speculation as to whether or not the protest will merge into a definite appeal for investigation by the council as a matter affecting friendly relations especially as the Nicaraguan foreign minister has denounced Mexico to the world as flagrantly having violated the rights of the Nicaraguan Republic by the use of force.

Should this occur, the council would make an investigation and recommend such action as appeared to be best. Then, if Mexico refused to accept temporary membership in the league and resorted to war, league penalties would operate against her.

"I have sent a strong protest to the Mexican government in regard to its illegal conduct," the note of the Nicaraguan foreign minister concludes, "and I denounce it to the world for having flagrantly abused its power in violating the fundamental rights of this Republic."

Competitive naval armaments should be limited to decrease misgivings between nations and thereby lessen the probability of war, thus pushing forward the cause of universal peace, declares the preamble of a resolution adopted by the naval committee of the preparatory disarmament conferences.

As a powerful economic objective of the limitation of naval strength, the committee emphasized that it will decrease the burdens of taxation weighing upon the people of the world.

The league is adopting a "hands-off" policy in respect to the special conference of the powers which is to meet September 1 to decide the fate of the reservations of the United States to the permanent court of international justice.

The conference will take place in the International Labor office building instead of the League of Nations palace, and the league will refrain from interfering with the proceedings. The conference will be confined to the signatories of the World Court convention, as such, and not as members of the league.

The first step, it is believed, will be to turn the American reservations over to a committee for examination and report. Delegates have announced they will urge an earnest effort to have the reservations declared to be acceptable, to bring the United States into the court as a member.

STUEBENVILLE CHIEF OF POLICE WAS VINDICATED.

Stuebenville Aug. 28 (UP)—Chief of Police Blaine D. Carter was vindicated, when charges of being intoxicated and driving while intoxicated were dismissed by Squire Paul Long, of Wintersville, near here.

W. R. Alban, counsel for the Ministerial association of Steubenville, who had filed the charges, asked for a continuance at the trial Thursday, when his two chief witnesses refused to testify against Carter, when they found his car in a ditch on August 16. That same day, Carter and Mayor John S. H. Patton, were suspended by Judge Jay S. Paisley, for alleged laxity of duty.

Carter's case was continued but just before court opened, Squire Long notified Carter the case had been dismissed.

Carter and Patton's hearing in common pleas court, on the charges for which they were suspended, will be heard September 8 and 10, respectively.

Bring Their Own Seats to Crowded Railway Trains

This is not a picnic party off for a holiday, but a demonstration, staged by the commuters, at the Lynbrook (Long Island) railroad station. It has been "Ah aboard for standing room" too often, so the daily travelers of the Long Island railroad took this means of getting the road to provide seats for them.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Dennison—Little Betty Beatty, 2 year old daughter of William Beatty, was dead today when she was crushed by a Pennsylvania freight train which she ran under in front of her home at Fishers, near here. Her mother found the child's body on the track.

Columbus—Slight damage by fire, threatened to cast a cloud over preparations for the annual pageant at the Ohio State fair here, when $150 damage was done to scenery to be used for "The Wonderer." The blaze started in the fair grounds engine house.

Columbus—Police today were looking for the Rev. R. A. Smith, pastor of the Memorial United Brethren church armed with a warrant for his arrest on a charge of intent to defraud, on a complaint made by E. B. Ward, Chillicothe, trustee of the First United Brethren church there. Rev. Smith is wanted for signing a note for $1200 and offering property which had been mortgaged, as "unencumbered security."

Cleveland—A hit-skip motorist was believed responsible for the death of Mrs. Sarah Peat, 72, who was struck by an automobile while she was crossing a street. Police are hunting the driver.

Alliance—The plant of the Alliance Fertilizer company near here, was almost completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The loss was estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000.

Columbus—Suit to compel State Auditor Tracy to complete the purchase and issue the warrant for $8835 for 4.65 acres of land at Chillicothe has been filed in supreme court here by Lloyd Reiterman, Chillicothe.

The state contracted for the acreage for a highway department garage but Tracy has been holding up the voucher on the grounds the price is excessive.

The largest electric locomotive in the world has been constructed by a Geneva firm. It weighs 126 tons, is more than 90 feet in length, and is driven by 6 motors, generating 4,500 horse power. The engine, which can be driven by one man, cost $120,000 to build and can easily exceed 100 miles an hour.

POMERENE TO BE FOUGHT BY DRY DEMOCRATS

Organization May be Formed to Oppose Candidate For U. S. Senator.

Charles W. Rife in his columbus correspondence, says:

"Dry Democrats of the state may form their own organization to oppose the election of Atlee Pomerene of the United States senate and support Frank B. Willis. This became known with the open attack on Pomerene made by J. W. Johnson, editor of the Circleville Watchman, and one of the pioneer Democrats of the state. Editor Johnson in a signed article declares that 'Pomerene is a Bourbon Democrat who clings blindly and obstinately to that period of history of his party when the bungle of a beer keg was employed as the binocular of party perception and vision. The praises of his superior statesmanship are sung almost exclusively by his wet admirers.'

"No one can accuse Editor Johnson of being anything but a regular Democrat all his life, and his stand against Pomerene is such that it is certain to have its effect among that part of the Democratic party who oppose the present dry laws, and would return to the days of the open saloon. It is interesting in this connection to note the fact that Senator Willis is the only man in the history of the state primary law to carry every county in the state with so many opponents, which is a pretty good indication of the estimation in which he is held by the voters of the state."

DEATH OF BABY.

Virginia Ann, daughter of Henry J. and Ruth Gallagher Derexson, died at the home of her parents in Yellowbud Friday afternoon, August 27.

She was born in Ross county, Ohio, on the 5th day of September, 1925. Besides her parents she is survived by two brothers, Henry Jr., and Robert J. Derexson.

Services will be held at the Yellowbud Evangelical church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Eastern Standard time by Rev. E. A. Tovey and interment in Springbank cemetery.

TRAFFIC LAW PENDING IN CITY COUNCIL

Ordinance Made Necessary by Installation of Lights at Street Crossings.

The city council now has before it an ordinance regulating traffic on the streets of this city and the same will come up for passage next Wednesday night, at the regular meeting. This ordinance is necessitated because of the installation of traffic lights. Its provisions are in part as follows:

It defines a vehicle as used in the ordinance as including a motor vehicle, horse and everything on wheels, the word horse includes domestic animals, driver as used in the ordinance means the rider or driver of a horse, bicycle, motor cycle, the operator of a motor vehicle, or anything on wheels, or runners.

All vehicular traffic at the intersections of Watt, Pinkney and Court streets, Main and Court, Franklin and Court, Mound and Court, and Main and Scioto streets, shall be governed and controlled by automatic traffic lights which display a green light to go, a yellow to be cautious and a red to stop.

A driver desiring to make a left hand turn may do so while the green light is displayed and facing him, and by giving a signal and by driving near the center of the street and near the center of the intersection of the streets turning the vehicle to the left and then proceeding in the direction, if the path in the direction in which he is moving is clear, but a vehicle when making a left hand turn must do so subject to other traffic, which may have the right of way over it. Any vehicle may make a right hand turn at any of the street intersections where a traffic light is maintained, when the green light is displayed and such vehicle is approaching the same and the green light is facing the driver.

Pedestrians shall cross the streets at such intersections, only when the green light is displayed in the traffic light in the direction in which such pedestrian is proceeding.

All vehicles before entering into the vehicular traveled portion of Main and Court streets in said city, shall bring the vehicle to a stop at the property line before driving said vehicle upon said streets, except where the same are governed by traffic lights, and the green light therein is displayed facing the driver.

Turning vehicles around, that is reversing them, is prohibited on Main street between Western avenue and Pickaway streets and on Court street between Pinkney and Franklin streets, except at alley intersections.

The lights at night on parked automobiles shall be dimmed.

Large trucks are prohibited from parking on Court street between High and Mound streets and on Main street between Scioto and Pickaway streets, except while loading or unloading goods and merchandise, and double parking is prohibited.

A fine may be assessed against any one violating the provisions of the ordinance.

Anyone having any suggestions to make as to the provisions of the ordinance should make them to any of the councilmen.

The Scioto Valley Traction company will put on a chair car for the accommodation of patrons to the State fair next week. The car seats are on the order of seating like the C. D. & M. traction line.

Columbus, Aug. 27.—Hearty approval of the report of Rev. Dr. C. C. Hein of the Ohio Synod was voiced by the entire body of delegates to the forty-eighth annual convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Joint Synod of Ohio and other states, Thursday, when more than 300 clergymen and laymen gathered from all parts of the United States, Mexico and Canada.

For the first time in the history of the Ohio Synod, a resolution was passed in the convention providing that all minutes of the convention be printed only in English. At all previous conventions it was necessary to print the proceedings in both German and English.

CONFIDENCE IN POMERENE

Editor Ohio State Journal:

I have just finished reading the letter of J. W. Johnson in today's paper in which he denounces Atlee Pomerene and calls him a wet, a bourbon, and says that no dry Democrat in Ohio can honestly support him for senator. I wish to say that J. W. is badly informed and that many like myself will not only support him by our votes but also by our influence. I am a lover of fair play and a square deal and that is why I am going to try to answer this bitter and hateful denouncement from J. W. Johnson.

I think Mr. Pomerene deserves the good will and respect of all the people of Ohio, regardless of party affiliation, for his past service and he should not be treated in such an unfair manner. His record stands out boldly and unbiased persons must admit that it is good and the chief executive, President Coolidge, has so recognized it, as have his former colleagues, both Democrats and Republicans. I would advise that Mr. Johnson look back and see what former President Harding has at divers times said complimentary about him.

I believe that most of the trouble with Mr. Johnson is that he has been misinformed and I want to say right here that neither woman suffrage nor prohibition is an issue in this campaign. The enforcement of law is an issue. There is no better friend of law enforcement in or out of public life than Atlee Pomerene. (He will not busy himself as a defender of wrongdoers, grafters and of corruption. Of this you can rest assured.)

The people of Ohio want a senator who will do their work the way they want it done. What kind of man are they going to choose for this task? Let me answer this. They are going to elect a man who is "of the people, by the people and for the people," and that is the kind of man ex-Senator Pomerene is.

There can be no doubt in the minds of the voters of Ohio whether Atlee Pomerene is the kind of man they need in the senate. He has proven by his past record that his heart is in the right place, that his brain is of the right caliber and that his hands are willing. In other words he has proven to the satisfaction of the public that his intentions are right, and he has ability to carry them out, and that he has the energy to use that ability.

Mr. Johnson seems to be only interested in two matters, woman suffrage and prohibition, and he accuses Mr. Pomerene of being the candidate for the wet interests and he pictures him as an old bar fly. I dare say that no one can honestly point to Pomerene as personally having such a habit or say that he is a candidate of any faction. Mr. Pomerene is a man of splendid habits and does not drink or smoke and we should in all fairness judge him according to his record as a public servant.

In 1912 the woman suffrage amendment to the Ohio constitution was defeated by a majority of 87,000, and again in 1914 it was defeated by a majority of 182,000 and in 1917 a referendum conferring the right of women to vote for presidential electors was defeated by a majority of 146,000. Now as to the other question. In 1912 Ohio voted against prohibition by a majority of 8,400; in 1914 by a majority of 85,000, and in 1915 by a majority of 55,000.

The election, we see, reflected the majority sentiment of Ohio voters at that time and Atlee Pomerene as senator reflected that majority sentiment when he voted in the senate. We have a constitutional government and this naturally implies majority rule, and in all candor did he not do right? And, if the vote had been reversed he would have voted in accord with his constituents' expressed wishes.

Since Ohio voted for prohibition in 1918 by a majority of 25,000 he has voted for all prohibition measures affecting intoxicating liquors, including the Volstead act, thus adhering consistently to his belief of that fundamental principle of majority rule.

Atlee Pomerene comes before the people of Ohio not as an experimenter but as a tried servant, tried in all respects and found wanting in none. To him credit is due for much of the progressive legislation protecting the rights of all the people and if anyone will take the trouble to investigate and compare the past records of Atlee Pomerene and his opponent the result is bound to be favorable towards Pomerene.

The election of a U. S. senator from Ohio at this time is a momentous question fraught with deep import to the people of this state not alone but of the entire nation. Will the people be misled by a lot of dry and wet propaganda and the like and permit themselves to be diverted from the big issues? Our nation occupies a precarious position with reference to Europe and the world. A critical situation also exists in this country. A great number of members in the house and senate seem to be strangely oblivious of the potential and actual dangers which threaten the welfare of America.

The present is no time to be jollyng ourselves; we need strong men in Congress during the next few anxious years. We must hold firmly to fundamental principles or chance the wreck of democracy as we have known it. The weak men must be supplanted by superior men, stable, responsible, capable men, men who stand as the champions of equal justice for all. This is not the day of political experiment and what position and sympathies men have as to prohibition, maternity legislation, etc., is a negligible consideration in comparison with their fitness to assist this mighty nation along the right pathway.

Pomerene has been an unfailing friend of the righteous cause of labor, as proven by the Adamson eight-hour law, the Clayton anti-trust bill, popular election of U. S. senators, the laws in the interest of the World War veterans, and other measures supported by him. No man can question his patriotism, the absence of selfishness in public actions, his courage, sincerity and calm judgment in his actions and in all his words. His serene personality and his character stand out in his generation. He deserves the confidence of the people because he takes the people into his confidence; he is a statesman of character needed this day in Washington and he will, no doubt, be elected by an overwhelming majority. He is an able champion of the people's rights, free, clear and unencumbered by trusts or special interests.

Lucky Man Gets All

A tontine agreement is an arrangement by which a group of persons share certain benefits or moneys on such terms that in the event of the death or default of one or more members these shares are divided among the remaining members, until one person has the whole amount or advantage. In most modern insurance tontines the whole goes to those remaining in the group on the expiration of the tontine period.

Three Soft Flounces,

Georgette lends itself admirably in this afternoon frock of lemon color, and which has a shawl trimmed with rhinestones. The bodice hangs in straight lines, while the skirt has three soft flounces.

Sheer Fabrics Dominate
Mode, Day or Evening

For the girl whose summer is a constant round of visits, frocks of chiffon or georgette are ideal models. Not only are they infinitely chic but their added virtues of not crushing and packing into small spaces make them a most satisfactory choice.

Fashion apparently has lost all recollection of the old idea that chiffons and materials of similar texture must be reserved for formal costumes. In the modes of midsummer one finds them used for frocks of the utmost simplicity. In fact, many are almost tailored in line and detail. Very little trimming appears on these dresses as the materials in themselves are so beautiful in coloring and design that extra ornamentation would only detract from their smartness.

The vogue of printed chiffons is at its height and these colorful and flattering frocks are in evidence at evening affairs as well as in the afternoon. Small floral prints in exquisitely blended colorings are perhaps the most popular. But equally charming are materials that feature the newer arrangement of geometric and modernistic design.

Coat Lines Slim and Straight for Season

The fact that coat lines remain slim and straight is of unusual importance.
Except in a few isolated instances, where there is a slight suggestion of a flare or back fullness, the silhouette is one of undeviating slenderness.
This is welcome news to those who found flares a bit too exaggerated for their own particular types and cape effects not so flattering as they had hoped.

So beautiful are the materials used for coats this season and so smart are the designs and subtle color effects that the slim lines and lack of ornamentation only serve to accentuate their distinction.

Self-toned patterns woven through the surface are a feature of some of the coats, while others reflect the vogue for shaded effects and for harmonious color combinations.

Chiffon Flowers Much
in Fashion Limelight

Chiffon flowers are seen everywhere and these are generally used for dress decoration of one sort or another.
They are very graceful, exceedingly becoming and softening to any set of features. It is an art to place a flower of this large and spreading sort on the shoulder, or to wear it at the waistline, according to the demands of the dress with which it is to be worn.

But its addition always adds a certain soft something that knocks the general severity of the costume into a cocked hat. A chiffon flower is but a faint addition, adding none the less just that shadowy bit of charm which is quite the last word along with the modern costume of the day.

Lace Is Prominent as Adornment for Frocks

The lace detail is occasionally carried into a more formal manifestation.
Long lace sleeves, for instance, may be added to a dinner frock which last season would have been sleeveless.

Another decoration for dinner and dance frocks is the necklace suggestion worked out as insert, applique, beading or embroidery. Often it takes the form of a slender band following the line of the décolletage into a deep V-shape ended with a bowknot.

The frock thus adorned may be of

CIRCLEVILLE EAGLES

Next Opponents Will Be the Beaver Independents.

The Beaver Independents who will oppose the Circleville Eagles next Sunday at Mason Park, is one of the best semi-professional ball clubs in Southern Ohio. The club carries two left handed and one right handed pitcher and two good catchers. They have defeated some of the best teams in Southern Ohio and Kentucky and should prove a real drawing card when they appear here next Sunday.

The Eagles have at the present time the best team to represent Circleville in years. They demonstrated this last Sunday at Yellow Bud when they defeated the Chillicothe Paper Co. 2 to 1.

Rector, the new Eagle pitcher, shows promise of being the best turned out in Pickaway County in years. Sunday, his first game for the Eagles, he turned in a one hit game against the Chillicothe sluggers.

Knapp has been playing a great game at third base, and right now the Eagle infield is one of the best to appear in this part of the State. With Terry on first, Monk Miller on second, Tommy Thompson at short and Knapp at third, the opposition will earn all the hits they get through these boys.

A good game is promised when these two excellent ball clubs meet for the first time.

The Circleville lineup will be as follows:

McClennaghan, lf.; Miller, 2b.; Orahood, c.; Terry, 1b.; Stuart, rf.; Thompson, ss.; Knapp, 3b.;
McCollister, cf.; Rector, pitcher.

Glaciers Receding

The prediction in the British Westminster Gazette that another "Ice age" is in the offing draws a pertinent comment from a Seattle geology student. "Scientists living in the state of Washington have figured out that a variation of one degree in the temperature of that state for a period of 50 years would bring the glaciers into Puget sound," he said. "They refer to the glaciers of Mt. Rainier, 50 miles west of Tacoma. This peak has a larger system of glaciers than the entire glaciated area of Glacier National park. But at present the glaciers are receding, or growing smaller. Apparently the ice age is getting further away in the Pacific Northwest."—Detroit News.

INDIANS CLAIM

$1,293,890,455

Thirty-five Tribes Are Suing Government for That Huge Amount.

Washington.—Indian claims against the federal government aggregating $1,293,890,455, some of them growing out of controversies which arose more than 100 years ago, are pending in the United States court of claims where they have been filed in accordance with special acts of congress for their settlement.

Thirty-five different tribes, including the 12 which comprise the Sioux nation with its 50,000 members, are among the claimants. Nineteen separate suits have been filed by the Indians against the government.

Sioux Ask $800,000,000.
The Sioux nation asks $800,000,000 in damages, alleging 45 separate causes of action. One is grounded upon the fraud and duress which the Indians assert the government exerted after the Sioux war and Custer massacre to compel the cession of the Black Hills district in North and South Dakota for an inadequate consideration.

The Sioux also allege that the government's obligation in the treaty of 1868 to educate the Indian children has been violated; that the government took no steps to prevent the extinction of the buffalo, a main food supply of the Sioux, that it unlawfully seized great areas of Indian land and other complaints.

The Creeks, who claim $195,000,000, charge that under an unauthorized treaty negotiated by Gen. Andrew Jackson in 1813, the government took, without any consideration, more than 23,000,000 acres of tribal lands in western Georgia and eastern Alabama.
The Delawares base their claim for $1,500,000 on the theft in 1861 by a government clerk of $800,000 worth of state bonds owned by various tribes.
They allege they were only partly reimbursed for their loss.

Claim Land Given Railroad.
The Arikara, Gros Ventre and Mandan Indians of North Dakota claim that lands valued at $42,000,000 were taken from them by executive order without compensation and donated to the Northern Pacific and other railroads or sold to citizens of the United States. A similar claim is made by the Assiniboln Indians in Montana.

The Blackfeet, Blood, Piegan, Gros
Ventre and Nez Perces Indians charge that the government violated its promise that the Indians should be protected in their right to hunt, trap and fish in southwestern Montana by throwing the section open to homesteaders and that lands rich in oil, gold and silver were taken from them without compensation. They ask $42,000,000.

Dog Fond of Coffee

McPherson county, Kansas, has the reputation of leading that state in its coffee consumption, due mainly to the fact that it is largely peopled by the descendants of Swedish pioneers.
Now, Otis Greenlaw of Canton owns a dog that is strictly a McPherson county product. While no assertion is made that it is of Swedish extraction, it is a coffee drinker and three times a day has its coffee with its meals.

THE WHOLE WORLD

Realizes today that all prosperity depends on the prosperity of the farmer—1925 was a better year than 1924 and 1926 will be still better. The farmer is represented by a majority of land owners and real dirt farmers in all legislative bodies—State or National. The great demand for food is increasing as the population grows. We can't exist without good, wholesome food and the farmer that produces what we eat must be properly compensated.

The sources of money supply

HARTMAN THEATER.

Resplendent in its new dress—new and elaborate settings, new costumes, new effects, to say nothing of new songs, gags and comedy features, the fortieth edition of Al G. Field minstrels opens at the Hartman theater, Columbus, for the week commencing Monday, August 30.

The management this year terms the production, "The Fortieth Fete" in commemoration of the fortieth anniversary of this popular organization and the first part is a celebration of this eventful epoch of minstrelsy.

The fortieth annual edition will be presented with all the favorites who have helped for many years to build an enviable reputation for this company, the aim of which is to keep the spirit of old-time minstrelsy in the hearts of the people and in this they have been more than successful.

Blackface Eddie Ross with his African harp, is the principal funmaker. Jack Richards, the Welsh tenor, is at the head of the cast of singers. And there are Billy Church, Lloyd Gilbert, Dolf Kaston, Harry Frillman, Leslie Barry and a host of other good voices. Then there is John Healy with his inimitable "Old Black Joe," Harry Frankel, the big boy with the big voice a blackface comedian who has gained great favor with minstrel fans; Jack Kennedy, who received his training under George "Honey Boy" Evans, and a dozen nimblefooted dancers.

Old-time minstrelsy with modern trimmings is the backbone of this fortieth celebration and the semi-circle, the end men and all the characteristics of the old-time minstrel show have been kept in tact.

Seats go on sale next Thursday morning. Mail orders may be sent now. Matinees Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday.

LIKE RISKING YOUR LIFE TO SAVE YOUR HAT!

Operating your automobile without public liability and property damage insurance is like risking your life to save your hat.

The greatest possible savings that you can make by neglecting to insure is the few dollars that a policy cost you.

Compare this with the big damage judgments that are being given today. The ten, twenty-five or even thirty-five thousand dollars that you might be forced to pay to an injured claimant, if you had an accident and no insurance!

It is worth while? To risk thousands, tens of thousands, possibly everything you own just to save the few cents a day that an automobile policy would cost you?

THE WONDERER
EXTRAVAGANZA
AT STATE FAIR

Cast of Two Thousand Will Take Part--Staged in Oval at Grand Stand.

Final rehearsals for "The Wonderer," the musical extravaganza to be staged nightly during State fair week starting next Monday, have been in progress under the supervision of Charles V. Truax, director of agriculture. It is asserted that this spectacle will be the most elaborate outdoor production ever staged in this country.

A cast of 2000 people will have part in the production, which will be staged from the oval facing the racetrack grand stands. Here 12,000 seats will be made available.

"The Wonderer" is an allegorical story of the rise of mankind, and carries the picture by music and action from the Creation thru the various periods of civilization to the present time and then projects man into a period 50 years hence. The story is supported by elaborate lighting effects a chorus of 350 voices and a band of 150 pieces which will carry the orchestration for the spectacle.

This feature of State fair, according to officials, will be quite the outstanding entertainment event of the week. The various episodes have been in rehearsal for several weeks and the work of preparing the enormous stages and incidental equipment is just now being rushed to completion.

Under the supervision of Director Truax, the staging and costume designing is being executed by the Emilie Sullivan studios; stage settings are in charge of H. L. Sherman, assistant instructor in the fine arts department of Ohio State university; ballets are being directed by Jorg Fasting; the chorus is under the direction of Karl Hoenig; the band instrumentation is being managed by J. W. Wainwright of Fostoria, and the state manager is George H. Hoskyn, of Chicago.

AMUSEMENTS

Romance, brightened with humor, spiced with thrilling action, set midst magnificent society backgrounds and rendered into a thing of film delight by a gorgeously gowned cast of ample merit—that, in brief, describes "The Untamed Lady" which made a triumphant debut last night at the Met theater.

This new vehicle was written for Miss Swanson by Fannie Hurst, and presents Gloria as a lovely, alluring society heiress, with twenty million dollars, whose only liability is an uncontrollable temper. What happens when her fiancé—the fourth, by the way—decides to break her spirit, provides most of the comedy, drama and genuine heart appeal that make this photoplay as stimulating and refreshing an entertainment as one could possibly wish for.

Gloria never looked more beautiful nor acted with greater zest. Lawrence Gray, as the caveman lover, plays his role with commendable zeal and vigor, and Joseph Smiley gives a capital performance as the easygoing Uncle George.

Frank Tuttle, who directed the production, based on James Creelman's adaptation of the story, has staged it with an opulence in keeping with its multimillionaire background. Scenes of the Yale-Princeton football game, of a fashionable Long Island country club, of a hunting lodge in the Catskills, of a lavishly outfitted yacht and of the interiors of a wealthy mansion give the photoplay a society authenticity.

Just for good measure, there is a thrilling horseback chase as well as a raging storm at sea, during which Gloria is forced to shovel coal in the boiler room of the yacht.

Mistletoe

The European mistletoe grows on many kinds of trees, particularly the apple and its close relatives, the service and hawthorn; sometimes, also, on sycamores, limes, poplars, locust trees and firs, but rarely on oaks (contrary to the common belief). In the United States the mistletoe occurs upon various species of hardwood trees from New Jersey to Missouri and southward.

Estate Long in Family

Gardner's Island, in Long Island sound, near Shelter Island, is said to be the only piece of landed property in America which has remained continually in possession of the family of the original white proprietor since colonial days. The original Gardner acquired the little island in 1639.

Irish Linen Trade Low

The linen trade of Belfast and Ulster, which is experiencing hard times, is now further embarrassed by foreign competition. The low exchange rates make foreign yarns cheaper than those produced in Ulster. The rate of the franc in France and Belgium enables manufacturers in those countries to undersell Ulster. According to recent official returns, the linen exported shows a drop of $1,250,000 a month, in the part of 1926 covered by the figures, as compared with the corresponding period in 1925, and 1925 was a bad year.—Chicago Daily News.

Caroline Had Courage

By SIDNEY BLAIR

(Copyright.)

CAROLINE had expected to have a wonderful time when she went to visit her aunt and cousins in New York. But somehow when she arrived things were not what she had expected them to be.

Her cousins, Pauline and Sue, were changed, for one thing. They seemed to be anxious all the time about their various engagements. They were anxious, too, about Caroline.

"You mustn't be too nice to Edward Lane," they told her, the evening Edward entertained them all at dinner and the theater. "He's nice enough, of course, but he hasn't any money."

"But—but he must have spent a good deal tonight," ventured their little cousin from the country.

"Oh, yes, of course, Caroline," Sue answered. "But it probably took nearly every cent he earned last week to do it. Let's see—we'll have to have him here for dinner some time soon, to pay him back for last night; let's ask him the night Miss Hewitt comes and get rid of both of them at once!"

Caroline didn't like that way of doing things. At her home in a sleepy little southern town you were friendly with people whether they had money or not.

Caroline knew without being told that her cousins wanted to get married—and with them, getting married meant marrying a man who had money. To Caroline it seemed hideous, but Sue and Pauline and their mother seemed to think it was the only thing for a girl to do.

"You just have to have money," Sue told her once. "Without it life's just impossible!"

Caroline was lonely in New York until she knew the city well enough to find her way about alone. Then she went to the art galleries and museums and the public library.

One of the young men to whom Pauline was especially nice discovered that Caroline was the daughter of the famous Hilton Proctor, and devoted himself to her after that. Her aunt told Caroline that she ought to be delighted that the young man was a great catch. Caroline said nothing.

He gave a dinner for Caroline, a month after she arrived in New York, at a very smart new restaurant. It happened to be an evening when she was feeling very lonely, when it seemed that she just must pack her trunk in the morning and go straight home. She was trying hard to pretend to enjoy herself, when, glancing up, she saw the face of the young man who was picking up the dishes.

"Why—why—" she turned in her chair, but he had gone off to the kitchen, and the next course was being served. Caroline was very quiet until it was over, and the young man appeared again. Then, as he removed her plate, she laid her hand on his arm.

"You're Billy Raines, aren't you?" she said, in her soft Southern drawl. "Yes—I am," he said, and his voice had that same soft drawl in it.

"Caroline!" exclaimed her aunt, from across the table. "That's the bus boy!"

"I don't care," Caroline answered defiantly. "I used to know him down home—and—"

He had come back for more dishes, reluctantly. She motioned him to her side.

"Billy, what are you doing here? Won't you come to see me?" she asked. "I'm so lonely. Please!"

"Why, Caroline, I—I—"

"Caroline!" her aunt exclaimed again, and the young man disappeared once more. He didn't come back again.

"I haven't seen him for ages; he ran away from home," she said. "And now maybe I've lost him. Oh—"

And suddenly the other diners in the smart restaurant were amazed to see a pretty young girl in a white and silver frock rise from her chair and hurry across the dining room, to the door of the kitchen—and rush straight through it, with the head waiter following.

In the kitchen Caroline looked about her wildly.

"Where is he?" she demanded of the other waiters and the chefs. "Where's Billy Raines?"

"Nobody by that name here," one of them told her.

"Then—then—"

She spied an open door nearby. Through it she dashed, and into a narrow alleyway. A man was hurrying along it. Caroline ran after him.

"Billy!" she cried, as she caught up to him. "Why are you running away from me?"

"Because I'm a flat failure," he told her. "I said I'd come up here and make good, because I was sure I could sell that play I wrote down home. Well, I haven't sold it, and I had to earn a living somehow—you shouldn't have spoken to me!"

"Yes I should!" Caroline told him, catching hold of his arm with both hands. "I don't care what you're doing—I love you, and I always will!"

Caroline's aunt scolded frantically and tried to prevent the wedding which, nevertheless, took place the next afternoon. She stopped scolding only when Billy's play was accepted a week later. Then she told her friends, as Caroline had told everyone from the start, "Of course I knew that dear Billy would succeed!"

And she took credit to herself for the very pretty romance that grew out of Caroline's speaking to the bus boy.

There is no native bird which attempts to equal the mourning dove in domestic accomplishments, says Nature Magazine. CANNY TITUS TITE
TOOK NO CHANCES

Darius L. Chauncey, the millionaire broker, said at a Boston brokers' banquet:

"And then there's the mean speculator, the speculator who wants to make a million or two without taking any risks. I told one of these speculators a story the other day.

"It was a story about Titus Tite, the village usurer. Titus was watching a patent medicine man conduct a sale of patent medicine. The sale had no success, no success at all, and the medicine man at last, in a spirit of bitter irony, put up at auction a bright new silver dollar.

"But the villagers were suspicious, though it was clear that the dollar was a good one. Titus Tite, however, went so far as to bid a dime for it.

"The coin's yours, Mr. Rockefeller," said the medicine man. "There are no further bids. Pass up your dime." And from his automobile he held out his hand with the dollar in it.

"But Titus whined up at him:

"Ah, take me dime out of the dollar, and gimme 90 cents change."

Steps in Warfare

Historians say that Egypt was the first country to have a military organization. Sesostris or Rameses III was the first military organizer of Egypt (1620 B. C.). Palamedes in 1193 B. C. was the first to form an army in a regular line of battle. The first guards and regular troops of a standing army were formed by Saul in 1063.

SOME OHIO SOBRIQUETS.

Tho some sobriquets are applied in the way of criticism, many have reference to praiseworthy qualities and on the whole to be so "dubbed" is a mark of appreciation of a public man. "Old Hickory" for instance, had reference to President Jackson's firmness, while "Plumed Knight" was taken from Ingersoll's eloquent reference to him in presenting him to a Republican national convention.

Among the Ohio public men who have been given sobriquets are General William H. Harrison, "Granny;" Thomas Corwin, "The Wagon Boy;" Samuel Medary, "The War Horse of the Democracy;" Governor Allen "Fog Horn," because of his remarkably strong voice; Governor Wood, almost forgotten now, "Tall Chief of the Cuyahogas;" Thomas Ewing, "Old Solitude;" General Ormsby Mitchell, "Old Stars" because of his knowledge of astronomy.

General Sherman was referred to familiarly by the soldiers serving under him as "Uncle Billy," while some times in their later years he and his brother, the senator, were referred to as "Tecump and Resump," the latter referring, of course, to the senator because of his effecting specie payments after the Civil war, as secretary of the treasury. R. P. Kennedy was called "King Bob" because of his firm ruling in party matters as the president of the Ohio senate. Judge Thurman had two, "Honesty" and "Snuff." General Grosvenor was dubbed "Old Figgers" because of his election predictions. Governor Foster was called "Calico Charley" and Governor Foraker "Little Breeches" both, of course, by their political enemies.—J. H. Galbraith in Columbus Dispatch.

COLLEGIANS
SCHEDULED ON SATURDAY

"The Hottest Band in Months," is the verdict of devotees of the dance on the State Collegians scheduled for their final appearance of the summer season next Saturday night at the Athletic club. So favorable has been their impression on dance-loving patrons of the Jitney dances at the club that the committee is contemplating on hiring them for Pumpkin Show week.

The smooth flowing and rhythmic jazz as well as the snappy blues numbers of this bunch of young Collegians has set the feet of dancers to shuffling all over the states. The crowd of on-lookers wherever they play is noticeably small, not because of lack of entertainment, but because the music proves irresistible to anyone with a spark of rhythm in their make-up.

The usual admission of 25 cents will be charged and dancing will be park plan.

WARNING AGAINST KNIGHTS OF ROAD

Practice of "Picking Up" Strangers Proved by Records to Be Harmful.

With the opening of fine pleasant weather the "sons of Esau," who have been "holed up" are again afoot on the highways of the nation, according to a motorist who doesn't follow the practice of "picking up" strangers on the road.

These restless souls, made impatient by an enforced sojourn in one place for the months of the rains and cold, are now in a hurry to be "going somewhere else."

Going Anywhere.
They are going north or south and some east or west. Few know whether they are going or how far. All that seems to interest them is a change of scenery, a new environment, new faces.

No matter on which highway one travels nowadays there one will see numbers of these "birds of passage" trundling along the road going somewhere, anywhere.

Some of them are honest workers who are seeking new jobs, and lacking the necessary railroad or stage fare, are making the journey on foot. But most are merely "tramps," "weary Willies," "bos."

There was a time when these latter "birds of passage" made a practice of giving their "patronage" to the railroads exclusively when they made their "long jumps." They rode the rods or blind baggage and the "side-door pullman" was travel "de luxe" to these gentry.

In recent years they have made a radical change in their methods of travel. The increasing number of passenger automobiles and trucks has been making the highways easy for them. Now they travel by auto—when they can.

And that is just the trouble. They so very frequently can and do. Motorists, most of whom are far more kindhearted and generous than they should be for their own good, do not hesitate to stop on signal from these "knights of the road" and carry them as far as they desire to go.

Regret Generosity.
There are many instances where autoists have regretted this generosity. It has resulted in their being found on the roadside, sans auto, sans purse and almost sans life itself.

Police annals throughout the nation are full of such cases and yet human nature is such that motorists will keep on doing the same thing time after time, heedless of the warnings contained in newspaper accounts of theft and almost fatal assaults by members of this army of "ride-grafters."

The wise motorist is he who will not give a "lift" to these gentry; who will go on his way unmindful of the stop signal so urgently waved in his path.

Study Oil Viscosity and Torque Needed to Start

Some attention has been given by the bureau of standards, Department of Commerce, to the relation between oil viscosity and the torque required to start an automobile engine in rotation or to bring it up to a given speed. From the results thus far obtained it appears that while the viscosity of the oil does have a pronounced effect upon the power required to crank the engine at speeds of 100 r. p. m. and higher, it does not have any appreciable influence upon the torque required to start the engine rotating.

Keep Glass Clear

Among the new laws affecting motorists in New York state are: The windshield and rear windows must be kept clean from posters. A license plate must be clearly visible on the front of the car. Manufacturers and dealers are required to register the sale of new cars.

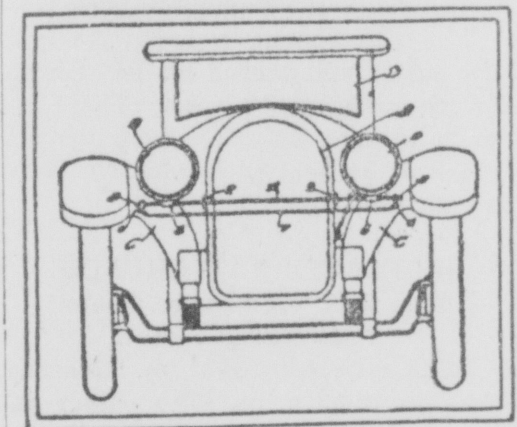

Six Ways of Being Good Driver Told by Expert

Seven nationally known traffic and safety experts were asked to state what they believe were the characteristics of a safe and good driver. An analysis of the opinions submitted show that the men all agreed on the following major essentials of good driving:

1. The good driver has a high degree of self-control at all times, this control manifesting itself in various ways.
2. The good driver always maintains his car in such shape that it responds easily and quickly, thus assuring control of the car as far as the purely mechanical equation is concerned.
3. The good driver regulates his speed in accord with the conditions of the road over which he is traveling and never travels at such a rate that he cannot stop it within the "clear course" ahead.
4. The good driver invariably exercises due regard for the rights of others and always applies the simple axioms of courteous behavior.
5. The good driver accepts the safety of the pedestrians as a primary consideration.
6. The good driver keeps his mind on the road ahead, as day-dreaming or chattering at the wheel causes many more accidents than are caused by bee stings.

Mechanism for Headlights

The illustration shows an adjusting mechanism for vehicle headlights, comprising a rod extending transversely across the front of the vehicle, having conical-shaped recesses in its ends, a brace rod arranged parallel with the first rod and having its ends secured to the fenders of the vehicle, brackets supported by the fenders at each end of the first rod, adjustable bolts carried by the brackets, pointed ends on said bolts for engagement in the recesses of said first rod, a foot pedal and adjustable connection between the foot pedal and the first rod for imparting movement thereto.

Always Release Clutch When Rounding Corners

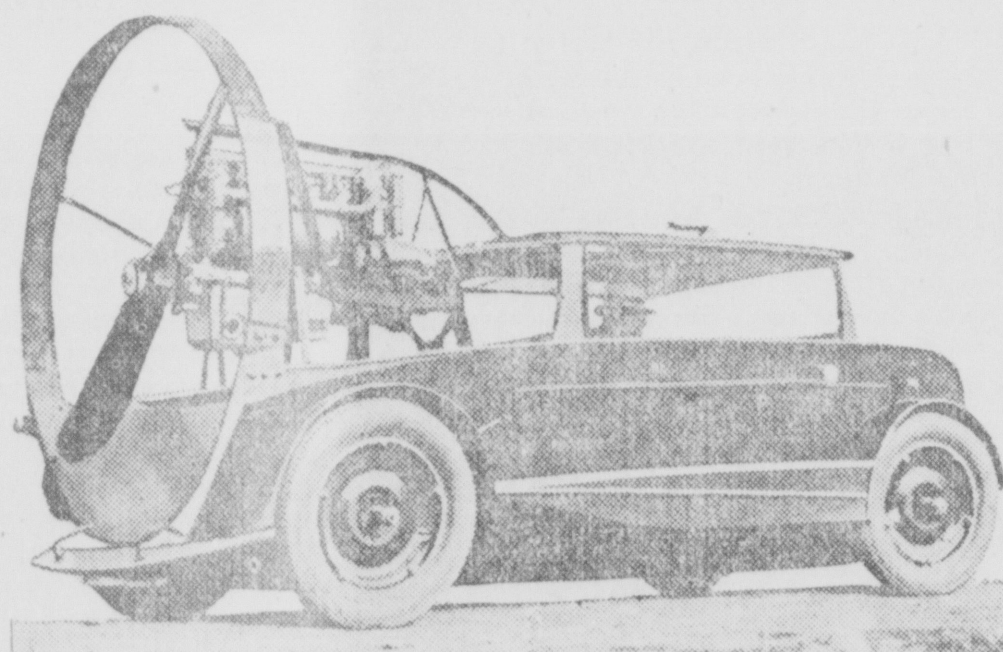

Always throw out the clutch when rounding a sharp corner. It has a beneficial effect upon the tires. Whenever the car tends to skid, due to its deflection from the straight course, a cross strain is brought to bear on the tire treads, which is directly proportional to the weight of the vehicle and the radius of the curve and proportional to the square of its velocity. If the power is applied in rounding a curve, the tendency to rip off the tires is further aggravated by the backward drag due to traction. If the clutch is released, however, the factor is eliminated and the strain is thereby reduced.

Auto Operators Advised to Start on Low Speed

When starting down a very steep grade it is advisable to place the gears in low speed. The rear wheels will then turn the engine, a movement requiring considerable effort. This produces a very good braking effect. A light car on a moderately steep hill will stop, and a heavy car will move slowly, but always under control. This is called "using the engine as a brake."

It should be practiced from time to time, so that the driver may become familiar with the method. If all the other brakes fail, this is the best and only thing to do. Practice the trick frequently, so that it becomes as easy as any other operation, and you will have cause to be thankful if ever the need arises to use it.

TRAVELS ON SNOW, ICE, WATER OR GROUND

George McLaughlin, a Bangor (Maine) garage man, has invented a machine which is capable of traveling on snow and ice, water and ground. It is equipped with a 70-horse-power aeroplane motor and will make 60 miles an hour on the road. It has airtight pontoons on both sides under the running boards, the top is constructed of wood boards in two layers crossed, with waterproofed canvas between both, to make it watertight. It is steered by the front wheels on both land and water, having no rudder. It will carry five passengers comfortably and is large and roomy; in looks, finish and equipment it equals the best limousines. Photograph shows a side view of the novel machine.

Red Wheel Makes Canning Easy

WITH the Lorain Oven Method of Canning you do not have to stand over a hot stove and stir and watch. You never have to worry about the "boiling point" or the "steam pressure". Fruits are canned right in the jars. There is no expensive canning equipment to buy. The Lorain Oven Heat Regulator measures the heat and automatically regulates the gas flame.

LORAIN OVEN HEAT REGULATOR

The Direct Action Gas Range with Lorain (Red Wheel) Regulator eliminates baking-failures and enables women to cook Whole Meals in the self-regulating oven while miles away.

Can your fruits by the easy Lorain Oven Method—and do all your baking by Time and Temperature in the Lorain-equipped oven of the

DIRECT ACTION Gas Range

The Direct Action Gas Range is different. There is no bottom in the oven. This open construction makes it an economical, successful baker—saves time and fuel.

The Direct Action broiler is above the baking-oven to save stooping. The separate broiler-burner makes it possible to broil steak or chops in a sizzling-hot broiler while the jars of fruit are in the oven at low temperature.

PENNSY PROTESTS

Columbus, Aug. 26.—(UP.)—A protest today was lodged with the Public Utilities Commission by the Pennsylvania Railroad, against Charles M. Burnside, of Urbana, who has applied for a license to conduct a trucking line between Piqua and Columbus.

The railroad company asks that this license be refused by the commission on the grounds that the present service between these two points is ample and that further service is unnecessary.

Mangy Hogs Not in Much Demand

To Obtain Top Price Feeders Must Have Animals Free of Disease.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The raising and marketing of hogs is now a more profitable enterprise than it has been for a number of years. On June 25 the price of hogs in the Chicago market ranged from $13.55 to $15.00 a hundred pounds. Swine growers and feeders are interested in getting the top price. It is important, then, that the animals reach the buyer in good condition, well-finished, and, especially, free of disease.

Depreciation in Value.

The United States Department of Agriculture calls attention to the depreciation in market value of animals affected with skin disorders. It frequently happens that hogs with mange are allowed to reach the market. This condition often affects growth and fattening and makes the animals less desirable. The carcasses of such hogs have an unsightly appearance, the cuts of pork are reduced in value, and in some cases it is necessary to remove the entire skin in order to make the meat salable. Hogs affected with mange in the advanced stage are condemned as unfit for food under the federal meat inspection regulations. It is only reasonable for the packer to pay less than market quotation for mangy hogs, or refuse to buy them at any price.

Hog mange is caused by insect-like parasites called mites. The sores in the early stage are found on the head around the eyes, nose, and ears, and from these parts they spread, according to the activities of the mites, until the entire skin is involved.

Prevent Mange.

Mange may be prevented by keeping the hogs in clean pens or pastures, away from filthy wallow holes and by the use of oilers or rubbing posts. Crude oil (petroleum) is effective in keeping the animals free of parasites, including mange mites. While there are various types of hog oilers on the market, a simple home-made one may be arranged by driving a post firmly in the ground and wrapping it securely with gunny sack. Oil is poured over the post from time to time to keep the cloth saturated. If a clean cement wallow is provided, the oil may be poured on the water and in this way reach the skins of the animals. A sand wallow may be utilized also in sections where hog lots are sandy. A space about 20 feet square is provided with side boards 8 to 10 inches high, the space filled with clean sand and the oil spread over the sand. The hogs will get the benefit of the oil in the sand bath. The sand should be changed from time to time, otherwise some of it may become hard.

If the herd has become affected with mange, dipping will be found effective in destroying the mites. Full information concerning mange, its prevention and treatment, is given in Farmers' Bulletin 1085-F, a copy of which will be furnished, as long as the supply lasts, upon application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Scientists Join Battle

on European Corn Borer

Andrew Boss, vice director of the Minnesota experiment station, attended one session of the meeting of the corn belt committee on European corn borer control held in Chicago recently. Entomologists, agricultural engineers and agronomists joined in studying and discussing the corn borer situation. The entomologists predicted that the pest would reach Indiana this year and that ultimate invasion of the heart of the corn belt is certain. Ohio experiment station men are co-operating with the European corn borer committee, manufacturers, land owners and farmers in carrying on experiments for destroying with mechanical devices corn stalks and other refuse which shelter the borer. Several parasites of the corn borer have been imported from Europe and, according to United States department entomologists, four varieties are becoming established in this country.

FARM FACTS

After the pigs are weaned it takes only sow sense to keep them growing.

Usually the farmer does not save money—he accumulates live stock and other forms of farm property.

Don't count your pigs before they're weaned unless you provided farrowing quarters free from round-worm infestation.

Farming with just the hands and the feet goes hand in hand with delinquent taxes.

In two months a field of weeds can sap the ground of moisture that would mature next year's crop.

Fall plowing improves the physical condition of the soil, kills insects, and puts the land in excellent condition for spring crops.

For best results it is as important to cultivate the young orchards as it is the potato or the corn crop. It may also be necessary to continue the cultivation after the trees come into bearing.

OCEAN MYSTERY
SOLVED AT LAST

True Story of the Marie Celeste Told After Half a Century.

London.—Solution of a great ocean mystery is offered at last in a simple explanation, declared to be the true story of the Atlantic sailing ship, Marie Celeste.

Fifty-four years ago a passing ship signaled the Marie Celeste, which was flying full sails. There was no response. On investigation it was found there was no living thing aboard the vessel but a cat, sleeping peacefully. The ship's log had not been written in for 13 days. But it was evident that the vessel had not been deserted that long, for the crew of the investigating ship found food still warm in the galley, and a fire in the stove was just dying.

Story of the Mystery.

An article in Chamber's Journal declares that this is what happened:

The Marie Celeste sailed from New York for Genoa. She had been unable to handle all her cargo, and a second ship, the Del Gratia, was chartered to help her. The captain of the Marie Celeste also borrowed two seamen and a cook from the crew of the Del Gratia.

The captain's wife was killed by a piano that broke from its lashings in a gale as the Marie Celeste neared the Azores, where she was to meet the Del Gratia. The skipper, maddened with distress, blamed a mate and ordered a seaman thrown overboard because while at the wheel he had permitted the ship to roll.

Throws One Overboard.

The crew refused to obey. During the night the captain disappeared and the mate was accused of his murder. The mate put up a fight and threw one of his accusers overboard. As the ship touched the Azores the crew deserted with the exception of the men borrowed from the Del Gratia and the second mate. They put off again to intercept the Del Gratia.

It is declared that the Del Gratia took off the seamen so they could claim the Marie Celeste to be a derelict ship and get a large reward for taking her into port.

Lee Kaye, author of the story, declares he obtained the details from John Pemberton, seventy-seven, the cook lent to the Marie Celeste, who, he says, is still alive.

Where Willie Fell

The teacher was explaining the difference in meaning of certain words, and asked for sentences containing the words "thoughts" and "reverie." Little Willie volunteered "I had several thoughts last night," he said. "That's correct," remarked the teacher encouragingly. "Now give me a sentence with 'reverie' in it?" "The reverie blew his whistle and stopped the game," was the answer.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Judge Lauds Newspapers;
Wars on Business Burglars

FOLLOWING the conviction of the proprietors of a chain of beauty shops for substituting their own product as a highly advertised hair coloring manufactured by Inecto, Inc., Judge George W. Simpson, of the Commercial Frauds Court, gave a statement today in which he said:

"It is high time that we got after these white collar bandits. Many have been punished, but the malicious practice of substitution is increasing at an alarming rate. Not only do these commercial crooks trade on the reputation built by national advertisers, which in itself is criminal, but they frequently endanger public health. The New York newspapers, and even the public, are helping the Commercial Frauds Court to unearth these fraudulent practices, and with their continued assistance we hope to carry our war to a successful issue.

"The work of Miss Ruth Weber, a public spirited young woman, who turned crusader in unearthing the beauty substitution banditry, is an example of what the public can do to aid the Commercial Frauds Courts."

It was through the testimony of Miss Weber that the beauty shop proprietors were convicted in 1922 at the suggestion of District Attorney Banton, of New York.

guilty of fraudulent substitution, but the article they sold is alleged to have contained a dangerous chemical known as paraphenyline diamine, while the product asked for was free from poison. When Miss Weber was offered a substitute, on the representation that it was the same thing, manufactured by the same firm, she telephoned the Inecto people, asking if they had discontinued manufacturing their hair coloring product. Upon being informed that they had not, and that the substitute was not of their manufacture, Miss Weber advised bringing the case before the Criminal Frauds Court.

Judge Simpson may be said to play the role of Arthur Train's "Ephraim Tutt" in digging up convicting evidence. He is the sole presiding justice in the Commercial Frauds Court the only one of its kind in America, which holds sessions in the Criminal Courts Building, New York. Judge Simpson has a record of 98% convictions, only two per cent, having escaped indictment by the grand jury or conviction by the Court of Special Sessions. The court has protected such famous names as Gillette, Houbert and Werombo. It was founded in 1922 at the suggestion of District Attorney Banton, of New York.

ECONOMIC SIGNIFICANCE AND SERVICE OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER AND NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING—From latest volume in Manhattan Library of Popular Economics, republished in serial form through courtesy of Bank of the Manhattan Company, New York.

SELLING SERVICE AND IDEALS

THE market place of the community the advertising columns of the newspaper do save time for the shopper; they do lower prices to the buyer; they do insure larger income to the merchant. Yet significant as these services are, they yield even greater values which, while ultimately social in their outcome, are founded upon a firm economic basis.

For example, if America has become a nation of home-owners, it is due in large measure to the persistence with which the desire for home-ownership has been stimulated through newspaper advertising. It was only a few years ago that the real estate business moved slowly along in a succession of individual transactions, until dealers awakened to the possibility of making their offerings known simultaneously to multitudes. A man with property to sell might rub elbows with several possible customers in the course of ten minutes' walk, but without occult powers, how was he to know that impulses toward ownership were present in their minds? He could not buttonhole them one after another, for busy modern life does not permit it.

But finally the real estate merchant—the realtor, as he is now called—awakened to the fact that all these unlabeled passersby were alike in one important respect—they were newspaper readers. At first timidly and then more boldly he ventured into the market place of the community and took his stand. And immediately those who had homes to sell came into personal contact with those who were looking for homes to buy. Whether for purchase or renting, whether for a home or business, or ultimately for larger operation, a new interest was aroused so that today newspapers devote substantial space to all phases of real estate, both in their news and editorial columns.

Therefore, aside from contributing materially to the development of what has come to be one of the important business activities of every community, the newspaper has likewise given tremendous impetus to one of the great stabilizing influences in American social life—home ownership.

Similarly, in the field of banking and in the promotion of individual thrift the advertising and news columns of the American newspaper have worked a magic transformation. Compare the atmosphere of the average bank today with that of a quarter of a century ago, before the banker had come to realize that the newspaper was a market place not merely for the products of agriculture, commerce and industry, but for service, ideas, goodwill and other intangible factors which influence the activities and promote the material welfare of the individual and the community as a whole.

When the banker emerged from the old-time seclusion of his private office and entered the market place of the community

In banking as in other fields the news and advertising columns have worked a magic transformation may be so classified, in which the aggregate capital employed exceeds that of the five important utilities which supply electricity, gas, water, street railway and phone service to the local communities of the country. It has been estimated that a newspaper advertising has shortened by one-half the process of selling the services of such utilities.

But this is only half the story. As in the case of banks, and aside from a sale of products, there has come a complete transformation in the attitude of the public utilities toward the public and in that of the public toward them.

In many other ways does this inclusive market place minister to the needs and desires of its users. One has only to glance at the columns which contain the announcements of the theatres, the churches, the schools and colleges, the steamship lines and railroads, or the classified want advertisements to realize how various and vast are the services, ideas and ideals which are presented in them alone.

STOCKHOLDERS OF DOLLINGS IN HARD LUCK

Stockholders of the defunct R. L. Dollings companies will receive only 13 cents on the dollar for $3,000,000 they sank on the alleged stock-selling swindle operated by the companies in many parts of the country.

This was learned Friday from a special report filed in U. S. district court by A. B. Geary, special master.

Referring to the 5000 stockholders, many of whom are of moderate means the master said that "at the most they can receive but a small percentage of the amount they thought they were investing but which they were turning over to either insane people or brigands."

Mr. Geary reported a cash balance of $55,145 left from the company's resources and of this he recommended distribution of $370,292 to the investors

FOOD SURPLUS WILL VANISH IN SHORT TIME

One Hundred and Eighty-Five Million Mouths to Feed by End of Century.

One hundred and eighty-five million mouths to feed by the end of the century! This is what will confront the farmers of the year 2000, in the belief of Dr. Firman E. Bear, head of the soils department at the Ohio State university.

"Our present estimated food surplus in the United States," Dr. Bear says, "is enough to feed about 20 million people. By the year 1940 this surplus will have disappeared unless higher yields are produced."

"We can grow more corn and wheat but have we any guarantee that food production in this country will keep ahead of the demand of our constantly growing population?"

"Conservative estimates populate the United States with 149 million people by 1950 and 185 million by the year 2000. The average increase for the next 75 years is estimated at a million a year. Meanwhile, other countries will also have grown in population. Apparently the world must be prepared to feed 300 million more people by the end of this century."

"The United States can probably ultimately support a total population of 350 millions, three times the present number. Improved machinery and substitution of motor for horse power have thus far enabled us to keep ahead of the demand. Much remains to be done in plant breeding, crop adaptation, and soil improvement."

"Whether we can ultimately feed and clothe 300 or 500 millions of people is not so important as whether we can increase our production fast enough to care for the needs of 75 million more people in the next 75 years. Ultimately we must supply our own needs."

WASHING FEET WRONG WAY HALTED PILGRIMAGE TO MECCA

Devout Mohammedans, who make the pilgrimage to Mecca, their Holy City, go thru an elaborate ceremony of preparation. Ignorance of one small detail of this ceremony caused Rosita Forbes, famous woman explorer to fail in her attempt to make the pilgrimage disguised as a Mohammedan, as she explains in an article in this week's Liberty.

"To disguise yourself as a native," she writes, "you must not only learn how to talk the language and wear the clothes, but you must be certain of customs, habits and manners. With an Egyptian passport describing 'Khadija, the daughter of Abdullah 'Fahmi' and a servant girl who thought I really was the child of an Alexandrine bey, I joined the pilgrimage to Mecca."

"I endured three days of stifling August heat in the Red sea on a pilgrim boat," she continues, "where four square feet of space was allotted to each of the faithful. I passed the vigilant eyes of doctors, who injected dirty serums into my arms; of religious inspectors, the 'Muftarijeen' between whose double row all would-be pilgrims pass, and was first suspected because I washed my feet in the wrong way before the evening prayers! My reported irreverence brought a Wakil of King Hussein to investigate and I was ignominiously deported."

TRENCH PREVENTS MOIST

A reliable way of preventing wet cellar walls is described by a reader who contributes a letter to the series on home-building now running in Liberty. "Being a tin-smith I can give the best remedy for wet cellar walls and floor," he writes. "They cannot be prevented by gutters, which run over in heavy showers."

"Dig a trench inside the cellar wall six inches deep and five wide," he explains. "Place a four-inch clay tile in the trench. Start at the point farthest from the sewer outlet and make the pitch one foot each way to the outlet. Place quarter-inch mesh galvanized wire over the tile and cement over it. This will solve the problem."

Greedy

During a heavy snowstorm I asked to shovel off a neighbor's snow. She agreed to my price, and I set to work. It was evening and when I had but a small piece to finish she told me to quit and come back in the morning to finish and get my pay. That night it snowed again and she had me clean the entire 150 feet over again before she gave me the sum that I had asked for one job.—H. A., in Chicago Tribune.
